For this assignment, I'm trying to automate the set of instructions made to create the poster generatively. So the work now is not purely a flat 2D final results but more of a series of generated results that is animated and altered simply with a click of refresh. Considering the technology and time limitations I met, some elements of the original work and also in my initial planning like some more animated, interactive and user-input components were not included. Despite that, throughout the process of making, the work itselfs challenge me to what code can possibly automate and do as well as how every piece of work can be expandable to new possibilities of making and reiteration.
